REPUBLICANS ARE MAKING A RECORD AS PROGRESSIVES

Pass Badly Needed Laws Despite Halting Tactics of Opposition.

PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL IS ONE

Contains Best Thought of Experts and Represents General Views of Both Regulars and Progressives; Democratic Proposals Out of Question.

Special to The Courier.

HARRISBURG, May 19.—Hampered by every device which skilled faultfinders can use, the Pennsylvania Legislature is continuing to maintain its progressive pace by plowing steadily ahead and placing upon the statute books laws which bode much for the future welfare of the state. When the Republican organization long ago made up its mind to disregard every let or hindrance which Democrat or Flinnite should try to chuck in its path, it took the position that it would have to ignore such opposition not only figuratively but literally and write the laws of the state as the majority should see fit, paying attention to the minority only when the minority should have a really helpful idea.

The work of the House on the Rockwell public service commission bill the past fortnight has again proved to the people the wisdom of this oft-proved program. In preparing the bill for final report to the House, the judiciary general committee and the Senate corporations committee followed the natural course of law-framers in taking the best provisions they could find. It happened that the majority of the best provisions came from the Tener-Bell bill, sponsored by Rockwell, with a few from the Flinn bill drafted by William Draper Lewis of Philadelphia. Provisions in the Democratic bill were so out of the question that the committee rejected them.

The bill has now gone to the Senate, the product of expert lawyers in and out of the House, framed with an eye to the rights of the people and the rights of public service corporations, so that neither may injure the other.

Ranking with the public utilities bill are several other important laws which were actually made during last week. Two of these task are bills of special interest to farmers and the other is the Wilson-Cuns bill to compel cold storage warehouses to label all stored foods with the correct dates and not to keep them beyond specified maximum periods.

Senator J. Harry Morgan of Northampton County has introduced a bill intended for the benefit of the liquor interests in some instances. In counties where there are an even number of judges and where they are equally divided on any question before them, Senator Morgan would allow the opinion or action of the president judge to stand as the judgment of the court. This proposed law would apply to the counties of Allegheny, Philadelphia, Lancaster, Northampton, Erie, Northumberland, Westmoreland, Dauphin, Fayette, Chester, York, Berks, Washington, Delaware, Montgomery, Cambria and Luzerne in so far as questions arising in all of the courts except the orphans' court. There is no orphans' court in the state equally divided. Under the Morgan bill the questions of granting liquor licenses and the making of appointments are the ones particularly sought to be determined. It is understood that in Westmoreland County Judges L. W. Doty and A. D. McConnell are not of one mind on some questions. The Morgan bill would allow Doty to make the decision, as he is the president judge.

A loud protest is expected from automobilists over amendments made to the Buckman automobile bill, by which the registration fees are increased on all cars of more than 35 horsepower. The present law imposes the following fees: Cars under 20 horsepower, $5; from 20 to 60 horsepower and more, $15. These charges were re-enacted in the Buckman bill, and it passed the Senate in that form. The House committee on public roads has amended the bill so that cars between 35 and 50 horsepower shall pay $15, and cars of 50 or more horsepower, $20. The bill, as introduced, provided that all automobile registration fees should be reduced to one-half after August 1 of each year. This is amended to read July 1.

The House unanimously agreed to the linking of the saloon and the schools when it permitted the following amendment to be inserted in the Magee bill to increase the penalty for drunkenness: "Said fine to be paid to the treasurer of the school district, where such conviction is had, by the alderman, police magistrate or justice of the peace collecting the same." The bill is intended to amend the general law of 1851, fixing the penalty for a person arrested for drunkenness. The fine is not to exceed $2 and costs. Magee has changed this to a fine not exceeding $10, or a workhouse or jail sentence of not more than 30 days. The House has shown a disposition to oppose the measure.

WILL OPEN A COLORED HOTEL ON MAIN STREET, WEST SIDE

E. Brooks Fuller, School Teacher, Will Meet Long-Standing Necessity for the Race.

The absence of accommodations for the colored people of the vicinity, and especially transients, is to be met on the West Side by E. Brooks Fuller, a colored school-teacher, who has leased the Wertheimer property on Main street, West Side, and will open the Hotel Lincolnia.

The hotel will have 10 rooms, clean and sanitary. A bathroom, with hot and cold water available, is also located on the second floor. A separate management has been placed in charge of the two first-floor rooms on First street, where lunches will be served. A barber shop and a pool-room will occupy one of the Main street rooms, and a store will be opened in the other.

Professor Fuller, who has undertaken the new venture, is interested in the uplift of his race. He believes that the demand for lodgings will be sufficient to assure the success of the venture.

PLEAD FOR ANHUT

Friends Hold That He was Only Tool in Bribery Scandal.

NEW YORK, May 19.—A strong fight will start today to keep lawyer J. N. Anhut, who was convicted Saturday for bribery in connection with Thaws fight for freedom, from prison.

His fiancee, Miss Fishmuth of Atlantic City, telephoned his lawyer that she was coming here to assist him.

Friends of Anhut in Detroit, where he was born and where he was elected state senator—the youngest in Michigan—have also come forward to help, as they believe that he played an innocent part in the conspiracy to get Thaw out of Matteawan.

When he comes up for sentence before Justice Seabury Tuesday efforts will be made to secure the utmost clemency.

It is understood that a charge of perjury will be entered against one of the witnesses for the state and whose testimony was material in securing the conviction.

WHY NOT LOAD MILK?

Complain Railroads Give Unnecessary Work to Farmers.

HARRISBURG, May 19.—In a complaint filed with the State Railroad Commission, R. Bruce Dunlap of Altoona raises the interesting question of why dairymen alone of all shippers of goods by railroad should be compelled to load their own product into the cars.

Mr. Dunlap calls the attention of the commission to the fact that railroads make provision for loading every character of freight except milk. He says it is a source of great inconvenience to farmers to be compelled to wait at the railroad stations until the trains arrive in order to load their milk on the cars, thus losing valuable time away from their farm work. This is the first time such a question has been presented to the commission.

HOODOO TRAIN KILLS FOUR

Also Scares Another Thoroughly on Ill-Fated Run.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—A train crew on a freight train of the Charleston-Valley railroad ended its run with a casualty list of two dead and one who narrowly escaped death. Near Arden the train struck Philip Burgh, aged 64, a miner, and cut his body to pieces.

At Richhill, about an hour later, a man was struck and fell in front of the engine. The engine was stopped and the man was pulled from under the train. He jumped to his feet and started to run. After a chase the train crew caught him and found him uninjured but scared thoroughly.

Several minutes later the train struck an unidentified foreigner, who died 30 minutes later.

JOHNSTOWN, May 19.—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, at his summer home in Loretto, said:

"There is great activity in all lines of trade, and so far no evidence of actual let-up in the pace. But, underneath the hustle there is a pronounced restlessness, even concern and anxiety. Financial interests are apparently not assured of the future."

WOOL-TRUST HEAD GOES ON TRIAL FOR DYNAMITING PLOT

Has Trouble Getting Into Courtroom Without a Pass.

WOOD EXPECTS QUICK ACQUITTAL

Declares Prosecution was Brought by Political Ambitions of a District Attorney Who Needed Textile Workers' Vote While Out for Governor.

United Press Telegram.

BOSTON, May 19.—Special deputy sheriffs and court attendants guarding the entrance to the supreme court here today held up and refused admittance to the building to William E. Wood, millionaire president of the American Woolen Company, who was placed on trial this morning before Judge Crosby on charge of instigating the dynamiting outrages that occurred during the strike of the Lawrence mill workers.

As Wood attempted to enter the building he was asked for his pass. As he did not have one, he endeavored to pass the guards without revealing his identity. He blustered about for a time and when he discovered that he could not enter without telling who he was, he acknowledged his identity. Then the attendants didn't believe him and continued to hold him up until Sheriff Quinn identified him.

Rumor was rife today that the Industrial Workers of the World leaders who made the charges against Wood were prepared to make a demonstration in the courtroom when the millionaire was placed on trial. To prevent this, Sheriff Quinn placed guards about the building with instructions to forbid entrance to the building to everyone who did not have a typewritten pass from him.

Attorneys for Wood announced before the trial began that they anticipated little difficulty in having the charges against their client dismissed. They stated that Wood would not have been indicted had it not been for the fact that District Attorney Pelletier at the time the prosecution was in progress was a candidate for governor and was making an effort to in the votes and support of the exitle workers.

STUDENTS PAY FOR PRANK.

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, May 19.—The freshmen of the high school were required to pay for their class fun when the school board handed out its ultimatum Saturday that no examinations would be given until the traces of a class fight had been removed.

The board was willing to stand for the fun until the freshmen, heretofore out of the conflict, decided to put the school under their colors. They ran up the flag and then smeared the pole with tar.

Janitor Bauman made a complaint to the board, which then took a hand. Alex Gonas and Frank Springer spent their Saturday holiday cleaning off the tarr.

United Press Telegram

BELLE VALLEY, Ohio, May 19.—Fifteen bodies have been recovered from the Imperial mine following Saturday's explosion, and preparations are now in progress for the funerals to be held tomorrow. All of the men will be buried at the same time.

The cause of the explosion is a mystery to the mine officials. They assert that the workings in which the accident occurred had been examined a short time previously by Fire Boss Hollis and that he had found them in first class condition, as he reported at the foot of the shaft before the men went into their chambers.

Miners not killed by the force of the explosion lost their lives through breathing the deadly afterdamp, which filled the workings immediately following the explosion.

BANK BRINGS SUIT TO EJECT A FIRM FROM STOREROOM

The Citizens National Bank Wants Possession of Busy Corner.

GRAHAM & CO. DEFENDANTS

Action of Ejectment Begun at Uniontown Forecasts Lively Fight Over Occupancy of Storeroom Desired by Banking House for Own Quarters.

Lively developments are anticipated as the result of an action in ejectment filed in Uniontown on Saturday to force Graham & Co., druggists, to vacate the quarters they occupy in the Markell Building, at the corner of Pittsburg and Apple streets. The suit was filed by Sterling, Higbee & Matthews, representing the bank. The bank contends that Graham & Co.'s lease has expired.

Some months ago the Citizens National Bank purchased the Markell Building from F. E. Markell, who is president of the bank, and announced that it would occupy the entire ground floor, using the present banking quarters for a foreign department.

A hitch in the proceedings resulted when Graham & Co. refused to vacate, claiming that under their lease with F. E. Markell, the former owner, they could not be forced to vacate for another four years. For a time both sides marked time, but on Saturday the bank began legal proceedings to obtain possession of the drug store's quarters.

Graham & Co. have been located in their present quarters for several years past. A drug store has been in the corner room of the Markell Building ever since it was erected. It was formerly conducted by F. E. Markell, who retired from active business about eight years ago.

Two attempts, he testified, were made to dispose of the Carnegie Steel Company to the Standard Oil Company. The first was made by Henry C. Frick, who headed a pool holding the controling interests in the stock. This attempt was unsuccessful. The second effort occurred when Frick possessed an option given him by Andrew Carnegie. This attempt also was unsuccessful.

NO WAR, SAYS WILSON

Talk of Conflict With Japan Has No Foundation, Declares President.

United Press Telegram.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—President Wilson is confident of an early settlement of the Japanese-California situation. So is the Mikado. The President has little anxiety for the ultimate disposition of the situation. There is no danger of the United States and Japan going to war. War talk has no foundation whatever.

Such were the statements made this morning by the President at the regular weekly audience with newspaper men. In no uncertain terms the President gave his interviewers the full inside information on the subject, but after he was through being interviewed he placed a seal of secrecy on the lips of the correspondents. He said that he took the newspaper men into his confidence to put a silence to the wild reports that there is any danger of the Jap and American coming to blows.

DEFEAT OF BOND ISSUE INDICATED IN EARLY VOTING

Fair Vote is Cast but Sentiment Against Proposal is Strong.

LITTLE WORK DONE AT POLLS

Prediction Made That Every Ward Will Pile Up Overwhelmingly Majority Against Board's Plan to Build School Building in Fourth Ward.

A special election is being held today on the proposal of the School Board to issue $175,000 bonds for a new high school building. The polls opened at 7 o'clock and up to noon indications were that a good vote would be polled, compared with former elections of a similar nature.

The vote up to noon was surprising. The total vote for the seven wards was 328. It was largest in the Sixth, where 65 ballots had been cast. The least interest was apparently being shown in the Second. The vote by wards was as follows:

First ward	45
Second ward	34
Third ward	46
Fourth ward	48
Fifth ward	40
Sixth ward	65
Seventh ward	40

The prediction is made in every ward that the proposition will be voted down by an overwhelming majority. There is virtually no sentiment in favor of it and apparently less than half a dozen persons were at the polls working for it. That the School Board will not be surprised at the outcome is indicated in a remark made by a director today. He said:

"We are not making a fight to have this bond issue approved. The matter is put up to the people. We believe that a new high school should be built, but it is for the voters to decide."

The voters are apparently deciding, and in no uncertain terms. The West Side, where the voters look with suspicion on all bond issues, and since the consolidation have had approval for none, the vote against today's issue, it is predicted, will be almost unanimous. In none of the wards on the east side of the river has any determined sentiment appeared in favor of the issue.

It is reported in some quarters that the Socialists are in favor of the bond issue.

The polling places opened at 7 o'clock. In one or two wards there was some delay in getting the election boards on the job but those who wanted to vote had no trouble casting their ballots.

In the First ward, H. C. Hays is judge of election with D. P. Patterson and R. E. Porter as inspectors; in the Second, Fred Munk is judge, with H. C. Humbert and John Detemple inspectors. William McCormick is judge in the third, the inspectors being F. D. Munson and C. H. Bishop. In the Fourth R. H. Christner presides, assisted by O. R. Blackburn and E. L. Stillwagon. H. O. Keagy is judge in the Fifth, the inspectors being J. Clyde Whiteley and S. A. Coughenour, James Doyle is judge in the Sixth, Carl Snair and George Armstrong being the inspectors. Dr. C. W. Uits is judge in the Seventh, the inspectors being C. E. Rowe and Fred Rohrer.

All of the bars are closed. Several persons had their memory jogged about the bond issue when they came face to face with the closed doors.

ACCEPTS FRANCHISE

Buckhannon & Northern is Now Ready to Build Into Fairmont.

The Buckhannon & Northern has accepted the franchise passed at a recent meeting of the council of Fairmont for an entrance into that city. This makes the project of establishing fast service between Pittsburg and Fairmont by the way of the Monongahela railroad and the Buckhannon & Northern more feasible.

The scheme as it has been mapped out would give Pittsburg fast service to Fairmont by the way of Brownsville.

The Buckhannon & Northern is literally an extension into West Virginia of the Monongahela railroad, being owned by that company. In turn the Monongahela is owned jointly by the Pittsburg & Lake Erie, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania, the first line having the controlling share. Only a few more miles of the line remain to be constructed and if the entrance into Fairmont is effected, service may be opened by the end of spring.

FOR DELICATE CHILDREN

A Mother's Letter to Mothers.

Mrs. E. W. Cooper of Bloomfield, N. J., says: "My child, seven years old, had a bad cold and was weak and quite run down in health She had been in this condition for about six weeks when I began giving her Vinol It was a wonderful help to the child breaking up her cold quickly and building up her strength besides. I have also found Vinol a most excellent tonic for keeping up the children's strength during a siege of whooping cough"

Vinol is a wonderful combination of cod liver peptone and iron for the blood, therefore it is a perfectly safe medicine for children, because it is not a patent medicine, everything in it is printed on every package, so mothers may know what they are giving their little ones

Therefore we ask every mother of a weak, sickly or ailing child in this vicinity to try Vinol on our guarantee. Graham & Company, druggists, Connellsville. Vinol is sold in the West Side by Fred H. Harmening.

P. S. Our Saxe Salve is truly wonderful for Eczema. We guarantee it. —Advertisement.

The missing word this week begins with "M" and ends with "E." It will take careful searching to locate it because it is carefully hidden

Last week the missing word was "General," taken from the advertisement of J. A. Renner, between the words "The" and "Public." It has been replaced and those who sought may see how it was done

Harms Students

More Than Most Any One Else.

The Chief of the Presbyterian Hospital in N. Y., Dr. Fisher, tells one very easy way to avoid some physical ills.

His comments on

are most interesting (see letter in southeast corner):

If the subject appeals to you, try leaving off coffee and tea entirely, use Instant Postum and carefully note, day by day, the return to health and strength.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more, and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

Experiment until you know the amount that pleases your palate and have it served that way in the future.

Postum comes in two forms.

Regular (must be boiled).

Instant Postum doesn't require boiling, but is prepared instantly by stirring a level teaspoonful in cup of hot water.

SPEAKS OUT

Dr. C. Irving Fisher, for a quarter century at the head of New York's great Presbyterian Hospital, says in the New York Times of March 23, 1913:

"Coffee poisoning is becoming constantly more common in this country, especially among students, whom it harms more than it would harm almost anybody else

"Coffee intoxication does not lead to wife beating, but its physiological effects upon some of its victims are almost as bad as those of alcoholic poisoning.

"We continually find at the various clinics signs of the harm done by the excessive use of tea and coffee among children.

"Surely this is quite preventable

"Children not infrequently appear whose nervous and digestive systems have been wrecked by these two beverages."

"There's a Reason" for POSTUM

COKERS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK; BRADDOCK LOSES

Silcox's Men Win Mediocre Contest by Score of 11 to 5.

BOTH PITCHERS ARE WEAK

Teams Play Fair Ball During First and Second Innings, But After That Twirlers Blew Up and Contest Becomes Ragged; Hall Hero at Bat.

For just two innings, the first and second, the Hannastown team of Braddock and the Cokers played real ball Saturday afternoon, the mediocre playing that finally wound up the game beginning with the third session and ending with the home team at the big end of the 11 to 5 score.

During the nine innings the contest was in progress, heavy, dark clouds that threatened rain at any moment to end the playing, swung over the ball ground. Perhaps the condition of the weather had something to do with the player's work.

Peffer who pitched air-tight ball in the opening game of the season against Irwin, was on the mound for the Cokers. He took three balloon ascensions during the melee, the highest one occurring in the sixth stanza when he permitted three visitors to scamper over the plate. He was assisted in his flight somewhat by the work of Francis. Chip went to sleep at the keystone corner and let a pair of easy ones go by that counted in the scoring

Hartley pitched for Braddock and aft two innings he looked a winner. He forced Stillwell to ground and easy one to Burns at short who pegged to first for an out, struck out Sisley and made Angus pop a weak fly to short for an easy out in the first inning. In the second he had Francis poling a simple one to F Burkhart at third for an easy out to A. Burkhart at first, Williams flying out to Madden in right and Klingensmith out, Burns to A. Burkhart. For the remainder of the game, however, he endeavored to beat any record for high flying that Peffer ever thought of making

The third inning saw Hall, Schulthois Peffer Stillwell and Sisley scoring before a man was down After five runs came home Angus and Francis flew out and Williams struck out in rapid succession The remainder of the Cokers runs were made in the fifth inning when two men worked their ways about the circuit: in the seventh when Stillwell, Angus and Francis scored and in the eighth session when there was more wild heaving on Fayette Field than ever occurred there during any previous inning Peffer got on first in the eight nd was stealing second when Cohill threw wild to head him off The pitcher then continued on his course to third and in trying to nail him there, O Guy heaved one that threatened to go over the grandstand. Peffer continued on his way home, scoring his second run of the game.

The visitors scored in the third fifth and sixth innings It was during the third session that Sisley made a most difficult catch of O. Guy's liner, nailing the ball that was travelling like a bullet for left field.

The work of Hall at the bat deserves commendation In four times up he fined out a double and triple, both times starting batting rallies that ended in runs being scored. The score:

JONES & KERN.

It develops that Senator John Wesley Kern has taken his inspiration concerning the West Virginia strike from a female labor agitator known as Mother Jones.

Mother Jones tells the honorable Senator some harrowing tales of brutality alleged to have been practised by the militia against the womenfolk of the mining communities, but it does not appear that she told him anything about her speeches to the strikers urging them to armed and bloody rebellion against the peace and dignity of the commonwealth.

It is, furthermore, a matter of common report which has never been denied that there existed for many months a state of siege at a number of mining plants with an accompanying border warfare of murderous character.

These deplorable conditions seem to have been removed and peace restored chiefly through the vigorous efforts of the present forceful Governor. There may be some good reasons for reopening this disgraceful chapter, but West Virginia people generally will not see it in that light. However, if its opening is deemed necessary in the interest of Democratic politics we would suggest that it is likely to prove a kicking gun unless the investigation is thorough and impartial, including, for example, the conduct as well as the information of Mother Jones.

The firm of Jones & Kern must stand or fall by its own record.

THE FINLEYVILLE VERDICT.

The verdict in the Cincinnati mine explosion investigation which caused the death of 96 men is unusual, to say the least.

If the mine boss is legally responsible for this awful accident because he did not compel the use of safety lamps in a mine which had always been permitted to operate with open lights, we must certainly agree with the jury of inquest in the opinion that the mining laws need revision in this respect.

If the duty of determining when safety lamps should be used in mines does not lie with the mine inspector it should. In no event should it be a charge upon the mine boss, who is not always a free agent and who is naturally desirous of showing his capacity for thrifty management.

Safety First has become one of the first rules of modern mining, and the fact will have to be recognized by all who have any connection therewith. Connellsville operators are doing it voluntarily. That's the most graceful way to do it.

SACRED PLEDGES.

Secretary Bryan had a great deal to say to the Democratic members of the Pennsylvania Legislature about the sacred character pledges. This is the sacred character of political pledges. This is the same Bryan who was elected a delegate to the Democratic National Convention and instructed to vote for Clark for President, but who promptly disregarded his instructions and led the fight for Wilson, notwithstanding Clark had a majority of the convention. Nothing is sacred to Secretary Bryan but the Sacred Ratio and the sainted person of the Peerless One.

According to the statements of some of the directors, the school bond issue is chiefly a question of whether the taxpayers want to pay 15 or 17½ mills tax. Most of them will probably be willing to forego the big building and the big tax.

The youthful cigarette fiends are now hitting the pipe. The Legislature didn't go far enough.

The Connellsville News has just discovered that the anvil and the plow are part of the great seal or coat-of-arms of Connellsville borough; and this is the newspaper which for many years posed as "the official paper of Connellsville and the Yough region."

The Democrats have always doned the party in power credit for the good crops, but perhaps they will change their minds this year.

J. Frost is evidently impressed with the Democratic policy. While that party is trying to freeze out American industry and prosperity, he is trying to freeze up the fruit crop and add to the cost of living.

Big bonded indebtedness means big interest bills.

Representative Blair of Greene county seems to be the bete noir of the Washington Observer, which accuses him of being for the Special Interests. It is probable that Representative Blair's chief crime is that he is not for the special political interest financed by Boss Flinn.

When they have helped to pass a lot of resolutions some people think their duty to the community or the country is done, when as a matter of fact it has just begun.

There is no getting away from the fact that increased school indebtedness means increased school taxes.

The deportation of Colonel Pasquale Bufano's countrymen on the ground that they have violated the contract labor law suggests the wisdom of their waiting, next time they come over, until they get here before negotiating for jobs.

Its been a long time since the Democrats have had an opportunity to apply the gag at Washington. Perhaps they may be excused for being free with it. It is a matter of pride to observe that the Republicans don't whine about it like their opponents once did.

Snake stories are still shy but fish tales are coming in. Local color is still modest.

Giving Prizes

"D WIGGINS, the grocer, has placed a jar of beans in his show window, and is going to give a five dollar gold piece to the boy or girl who guesses the correct number of beans," remarked the druggist.

"Dwiggins hasn't sense enough to come out of the rain," said the village patriarch. "The man who gives prizes that way needs a guardian. Of course Dwiggins thinks he will attract customers and increase his own popularity by his idiotic scheme, but it will do the opposite thing. The boy or girl who wins the counterfeit coin will naturally be pleased, but all the others will be as sore as political also rans, and the soreness will extend to their parents and their sisters and cousins and aunts. All these people will insist that it was a put up job, a foul conspiracy to humiliate them, and they'll boycott the Dwiggins grocery and Dwiggins himself will be ostracised. You can't give away a prize without making a lot of people as mad as molstened hens.

"We used to have a first rate county fair here some years ago. It attracted big crowds every fall, and it really was worth while to see the succulent pumpkins and things displayed there. But after two or three successful years it began to lose its grip. It seemed to have dry rot. I was one of the directors, and I argued time and again that the system of giving prizes would have to be abolished. A lot of exhibitors went away sore every fall, and never came back again. A farmer would bring his beautiful early Ohio colt and feel quite sure that he'd draw the first prize, for he knew beyond a peradventure that his colt was the smoothest critter in the state. Then the judges would come snooping around looking at the live stock, and they'd hand the first prize to some other fellow's colt, and that farmer would go home as ripping mad his language would scare all the birds out of the trees. He didn't want any more county fairs in his, worse than that, he made a black list of all the judges and officers of the fair, and he'd never buy another nickel's worth from any of them as long as he lived.

"It was the same way with the women. In those days most of the butter came from the farms, and every farmer's wife believed she was the best buttermaker in seven states. There were fifty women in this county who imagined they were peerless leaders in this line of industry. They used to bring their large yellow rolls of butter to the fair, and every last woman of them was dead sure she'd get the blue ribbon and the silver butter knife which had been offered as a special premium by the Elite hardware store. Then the judges would get in their deadly work, and the chances were that the first prize would go to some unworthy female, while the best buttermaker in the bunch wouldn't even get honorable mention. I tell you, my friends, it was enough to make a man's blood turn to water in his veins to see those women leaving the fair grounds with their noses in the air, and the lust of battle in their eyes.

"It was the same way all along the line, and so finally the fair went out of business, and a lot of people still are wondering why. The county fair is almost extinct throughout the country, and people continue to wonder why, when the reason is right in front of them, bigger than a cathedral. Before the fair can be resurrected and made a living issue some scheme will have to be devised for rewarding all exhibitors and sending everybody away in a good humor.

"When I was in the feed business I got in a new kind of condition powder, and thought up a great scheme to boost it. I had thirty horse owners begin feeding the powder on the same day, and agreed to give a gold headed cane to the man whose horse showed the greatest improvement at the end of thirty days. Well, at the appointed time I gave the prize to the man whose horse looked best to me, and he said he could buy a better cane for 75 cents at the Racket store, and the other twenty-nine said I had worked a confidence game on them, and I'd never see another nickel of theirs as long as they lived, and I never did. One of them had me arrested a few days later, saying my condition powder had killed his horse, and another threw bricks through the windows of my store. If you haven't enough trouble, just give away prizes, and you'll have plenty."

GARDEN CONTESTS INTERESTING THE SCOTTDALE YOUTH

New Departure of Y. M. C. A. Bringing in Numerous Applicants

FOR THEIR PLOTS OF GROUND

About 30 Prizes Will be Offered, and Besides Being Eligible Crops Will Belong to Boys; "The Program of Social Christianity" Given Tonight.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, May 19.—Much interest is growing among the boys of town over the garden contest being planned for inauguration here by the Y. M. C. A. and the application blanks for plots of ground to cultivate are coming in to Secretary J. A. Addison's office in such a number as to indicate the plan is well thought of. The garden contest idea, as a means of recreation and profit to the children during the summer vacation, has been a great success wherever it has been tried, and that in Scottdale should be no exception to this, is the belief of those who have been pushing the idea along.

The association has agreed that no charge be made for the use of the ground, the only cost to be for seeds and possibly for a couple of garden tools. To suit different ages the plots are staked off in two different sizes, the older boys getting "farms" of 20x30 feet and the younger boys ones of 10x15. Nearly 30 prizes will be offered for work on the plots which will be opened soon. Several of these will be general prizes, such as for the best kept garden, the one producing the most vegetables of the greatest commercial value, etc. The largest yield of individual crops will also be the object of prizes. The following have been suggested as desirable entries in the contest: Cabbage, tomatoes, beets, peas, beans, lettuce, radishes, onions, etc. In addition to their being eligible for prizes the boys will receive their crops for home use or for sale. Thus the entires idea is a good one for the boys and should provide them with a good, healthful and profitable time during the summer.

TO INFIRMARY.

James Sullenberger, of west of town, who has been suffering from tuberculosis and who has been in a very critical condition, has been taken to the Westmoreland Infirmary. He has a wife and one child, and they have been with the wife's parents, near Greensburg, for sometime.

SOCIAL SERVICE.

At the First Presbyterian Church this evening there will be an interesting speaker in the person of Harry F. Ward, who brings a new kind of message to the church, the call to social service. "The Program of Social Christianity" will be the subject, and the lecture will be at 8 o'clock. No admission will be charged.

AT COMEDY.

A good number from Scottdale were at the Mount Pleasant Township High School attending the rendition of "The Freshman," a college comedy presented by the students of the school Friday evening. They have a fine auditorium fully equipped in the new high school building and are therefore provided with facilities to produce anything of this sort, and the comedy of Friday evening was distinctly well rendered. Hubert C. Bicher of Scottdale is principal of the school, and is rapidly making the new building a social center for the township as well as a school building.

Those taking part in the rendition of "The Freshman" were as follows: J. Bryson Marsteller, second year, Samuel Fisher first year, Joseph Torbush second year, Wade Marks, second year, H. C. Bicher, L. P. Cumbaugh, Ralph Kromer, first year, Florence Welty, fourth year; Edythe McMurray, fourth year; Nelle Byers, and Lena Heinzman first year. The music was by the High school orchestra. There was also a solo by Zella Casey a second year student. The special stage drop was furnished by Andrew Brownrh, a prospective high school student.

Saturday was mill payday and there was a large crowd on the streets in the evening, it being one of the prettiest Saturday nights in months. The merchants report a very fine day's business.

Do You Need Assistance

IN THE SELECTION OF YOUR WALL PAPER?

There is a logical sequence governed largely by the existing conditions in your home which if followed will produce correct results. Each room should be treated so as to give it correct form and proportions.

Then there is the question of color and design which must suit the individualities of each room as well as harmonize with the adjoining rooms. Especially is this true of parlors, dining room and reception hall or any group of rooms when considered collectively.

I can render you valuable assistance in the selection of your Wall Papers.

WELSH SINGERS COMING

Brilliant Male Chorus to Visit Uniontown on Thursday.

What is declared to be the finest male chorus that Wales has ever sent to this country will be heard in Uniontown on Thursday evening when the Royal Gwent Glee Singers will appear in the high school auditorium there. The chorus of 22 voices is under direction of George F. Davis and is now making its first american tour.

There are several good soloists in the organization, which is filling concerts and eisteddfodic engagements. The chorus was brought to Fayette County through the efforts of Miss Anna R. Cunningham of Uniontown and will interest music lovers in addition to the many Welsh residents of the region.

Try Olive Tablets—the Substitute For Calomel.

Anyone who takes Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets the moment he suspects his liver or bowels, will never have headache

Thousands of people take one every night at bedtime just to prevent disorder of the liver, constipation, bad breath, pimples, headache, etc.

"GO IN DEBT if you want to get rich. There is no incentive to save equalling the compulsion to save that follows a prudently-made debt.

"Don't go in debt on general expenses—that will foster ruin. Don't buy a suit unless you can pay for it—or an automobile or anything of costly upkeep

"But buy a house—prudently; or a farm—with more deliberation; or a piano, or some real property. And you'll save—and soon own it.

"Our records show hundreds of piano owners who never could have owned an instrument on a cash basis, and all the vast experience of selling pianos we have known of no subsequent hardship; nor have we been asked for relief from the bargain, except in two or three cases. Family bereavement—the loss of the breadwinner—has, in a few cases, changed plans. And we have helped to make the change easy"

"Oh, this is more than I can bear! Am I a dog, a horse, a pig, that I can be traded in a dirty deal with not so much as 'by your leave?' I'll not stand it for another instant. One humiliation after another has been my lot, but this is the last. I'm through with you. What has passed has taught you nothing; you're the bargaining, trading, scheming politician still, so low that you'd make your own daughter, your own flesh and blood, the bait to lure a good man from his purpose. But you can't do it," she cried, a note of triumph creeping into her denunciation; "he's not your kind. And do you believe that I'd submit to such a thing? What can you think of me? You put me on a plane with those vile creatures who pay you for protection."

"Gloria, please stop!" Wright pleaded. Her father could only look at her in wonder as she poured out the pent-up passion of her inmost soul.

"No, I'll not stop—there's more to say. Here, within this hour, Mr. Wright asked me again to be his wife, and I refused—refused because of you. I came here to warn him against you, to tell him the truth, because once we loved each other. No one can blame me for wishing him well. I came to tell him because I can't be here after this to save him as once I did. Over my body I dared your hirelings to take him, and not one moved. Now I'm going away forever and I want him to have what protection the truth will give. But my warning would be useless; what you offered to do just now is warning enough in itself. The man who would sell his own daughter is capable of anything!"

"You Kin Come Over to My Way of Thinkin'."

"Please, Gloria, stop," Wright entreated. "I'm not accustomed to have any one else fight my battles for me. I can take care of myself."

"May be you can," sneered the boss, "but ever since you've been here you've been hidin' behind my daughter. It's because o' her I didn't go after you hot an' heavy long ago. An' then when they did come near gittin' you the other day, she stopped 'em."

"You, Gloria!" Wright could not understand. She only bowed her head.

"But now, by God! that's all past." Kerr brought his fist down on the table with a bang. His breath came in apoplectic gasps and his face was livid with rage. "She's out of it as fer as I'm concerned. I did everything in the world fer her, an' it wasn't no use." He turned to his daughter as he hurled out his anger and disappointment between his gasps for breath. "I was ready to stan' by you to the end, and' what do I git fer all my schemin' an' planning' for you? Nothin' but slum looks an' harsh words. If yer goin' away, go. I disown you. I cast you off."

The girl did not quail beneath his bitter words. They only inflamed her to announce the decision she had already made. Her lip curled with scorn, her eyes snapped, as she looked at her father.

"You disown me! You cast me off!" All the contempt she could muster she threw into her voice. "What right have you, who would barter me away as you would a horse or dog? No, it's I disown you!"

Wright walked over to her and sought to take her hand gently in his, but she drew away. She would stand alone. Like a blind old bear David Kerr semed to grope his way to the door. There he turned to gaze once more upon the wreck of his latest schemes. His rage was still hot upon him.

"I found you in this—this adventurer's room. I leave you here. Look to yerself, you are no child o' mine."

The door banged behind him and Gloria Kerr knew that they had met for the last time. The girl, feeling so miserably alone in the world, turned to find bent upon her the tender gaze of the man whom she had once sworn to follow to the end of the world. For them love was dead, she knew, and now life would be for her only a succession of weary days.

"I thought all but my body died that day we spoke of love to find it but a dream," she acknowledged sadly, "yet there was one cup still more bitter I had to drain—and this was that cup's dregs."

"Oh, Gloria, believe me, out of unhappiness happiness comes. Your place is with me now. I hadn't told you, but I, too, am going away forever. And what is more, I'm going to take you with me."

She looked at him in wonder, then slowly shook her head.

"No, you can't leave Belmont, Joe. You're not a coward. I'm going, but your place is here."

"Do you think I shall let you go alone? Never. The one reason I am going east is to sell the Belmont News. I'm through with it. Then I shall follow you over the world until I make you mine—because I love you."

The girl looked at him with the faintest of smiles battling with her settled melancholy. He was bordering on melodrama, and she was regarding him with the same gentleness a loving mother exhibits toward an unreasoning little child.

"How selfish you are, Joe. All your fine sermons are going for naught. You've preached of your duty, and yet at the chance to show your devotion to that duty you're wanting to give up the fight. I'm not worth it, Joe, really I'm not. Think of Belmont. A general doesn't desert his soldiers after a victory, just because he knows the enemy has sent for reinforcements. That would be cowardly, and it isn't like you, Joe. The brave general doesn't give ground, he advances. Don't follow me; I would hate you. I know how Belmont needs you."

"But I need you, Gloria. And what is more, you need me and I can't let you go alone. There is a world elsewhere, even other Belmonts where we can live and labor and love. I didn't know till your father referred to it that you were at Noonan's that day. Can't you see how I need you for my guardian angel? How did you happen to be there?"

Briefly she detailed the visit, minimizing her part in saving him. None the less he was able to see that it was to her he owed perhaps life itself. He listened in silence, letting her tell her story in her own way.

"Gloria, I've come to a decision." She looked at him questioningly. "I'm going to do what you've ordered. I'm going to stay here and fight for Belmont."

"Joe, you mean it!" Her face lit up with pleasure and she held out both her hands to him. He took them both, and to her surprise, and despite her resistance, drew her to him.

"But I'm not going to stay alone. If I'm to fight the good fight, I'm not going to fight alone. You called me a coward for wanting to go; won't you reward me for deciding to stay? And out of unhappiness happiness will come. You must stay, Gloria; our place is here."

"Our place!" she echoed, and then was silent for a little time, her head upon his shoulder. He held her tightly, she could not escape. The feeble efforts she had made to break from him were now abandoned as she thought more and more upon his words. At last she looked up at him and smiled. "Yes, Joe, our place is here, and our happiness. Right in this room all my old pride died. But there has been born a new pride, a pride in you and in me, and in what it has been given us to do." The tears came into her eyes as she thought of what they were to each other. "You are all I have in the world, dear; you are my world. Make me always proud that I am your wife."

Wright drew her closer to his heart and kissed her. And there in the shelter of his arms she rested. Peace had come to her.

THE END.

PRISONER OF ZENDA.

James H. Hackett in Remarkable Play at Olympic Wednesday.

On Wednesday the patrons of the movies here will be given the rare opportunity of seeing James K. Hackett in "The Prisoner of Zenda," a dramatic masterpiece of romance and adventure. The photoplay is in four acts and covers 4,400 feet of film. The play will be shown one day only, Wednesday, May 21. This is one of the greatest moving picture plays ever exhibited and costs the local house about ten times as much as the usual play.

This picture has been shown in the largest theatres in the United States and Mr. Walter, the new manager of the Olympic, has gone to a big expense to get this production.

West Penn Makes Another Reduction In Rates

New Residential Rate---Schedule C

Becomes Effective June 1, 1913

In order to afford opportunity to its consumers to use electric irons, electrical cooking devices and other appliances, at reduced expenses, the company offers, in view of near completion of its large water power plants, to supply such amount of increase of current as may be required by such apparatus at one-half of the standard residential lighting rate, viz:—five cents net per kilowatt hour.

The primary portion of the monthly consumption to which the regular charge of ten cents (10c) net per kilowatt shall apply is to be determined as follows:—

HOUSES:

5 rooms or under, 10 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
6 rooms or under, 12 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
7 rooms or under, 15 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
8 rooms or under, 17 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
9 rooms or under, 20 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
10 rooms or under, 25 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
11 rooms or under, 30 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
12 rooms or under, 35 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
13 rooms or under, 40 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
14 rooms or under, 45 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month
15 rooms or under, 55 KW. Hrs. primary consumption per month

For each room in excess of 15 the primary portion is to be increased at the rate of 4 kilowatt hours per room.

For additional current, one-half price (five cents net per kilowatt hour) for all current above the primary consumption.

The number of rooms specified will be as rated by real estate classification, to which will be added the hall-way (bath-room, cellars and porches excluded.)

This rate is optional and the consumers will not be called upon to adopt it unless they find it to their advantage to do so. This rate will be effective for present consumers, desiring to make the change, at regular meter reading periods only.

Our solicitors will gladly explain the features of this schedule on request.

Special Sale | WRIGHT-METZLER CO. | AN INEXPENSIVE PLACE TO TRADE | 125 W. Main Street, Connellsville | Special Sale

Wednesday, May 21, All Colored WOOL SUITS FOR WOMEN At Exactly HALF PRICE

A REMARKABLE opportunity for women and girls to choose, without restriction, spring and summer wool suits in black, the many shades of blue, gray, all the diffrent tan tones, shepherd checks and stripe effects and pay just HALF the low, fair price plainly marked on each ticket.

And right in the middle of May, with a long wearing season ahead! July is the usual time for selling the remainder of suits in stock at half, but the in-come of an enlarged stock of wash suits, dresses and other mid-summer apparel calls for the cases that wool suits occupy: hence this HALF PRICE movement which comes earlier than we've ever known it here or any where.

ALL Are Fresh Suits of the Highest Type and in the Styles of Today

OUR stock of women's suits is probably the largest in Connellsville, and the FINEST if the preference of our many critical patrons is an indication. Quality is ever the key note of our suit collection and naturally, refined, good taste is a close associate of quality as is evidenced by the smart models in this collection.

Women on the spot when the sale opens Wednesday morning, May 21st, will probably be surprised at the great number of suits they will choose from. Variety is kept up the season through which will account for the very complete range of colors, sizes, fabrics and price.
